Dear Michael Towns,

As you might have noted, your LONI account has been activated. Welcome on board!

Here is a short survey to better understand what you need to use our computational facilities

<https://goo.gl/forms/icA3Jd4suN0nFh8n2>

While we HPC staff are willing to answer any questions about HPC, we expect you to spend some time on attending or reviewing the "HPC User Environment 1" and "HPC User Environment 2" training sessions for acquiring the basic HPC knowledge:

Our current training

<http://www.hpc.lsu.edu/training/tutorials.php#upcoming>

archived

<http://www.hpc.lsu.edu/training/archive/tutorials.php>

The above training provides an overview of the Linux introduction, HPC/LONI general account and allocation policies, hardware and software environments, queuing system, compiling programs, writing submit scripts, running and monitoring jobs on HPC systems, please make sure you have a general understanding of our HPC systems before trying to submit jobs.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

The current ticket state is: "open"

Michael,

I approved your request for a LONI account. Please see the MPI job script attached. To run something like this, you would need to execute "qsub job_script".

Dear Dr. Drozdenko,

Are you willing to sponsor Michael Towns's LONI account? If so, please confirm so we can proceed with the account activation.

Thanks,
